Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

1. The information disclosure statement (IDS) submitted on September 9, 2003, was filed and the submission is in compliance with the provisions of 37 CFR 1.97. Accordingly, the information disclosure statement is being considered by the examiner.

Specification

2. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

3. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Corompt (4,848,619) in view of Parris (3,591,121).

Corompt (4,848,619) discloses a transportable container comprising a container body (Figs. 1-7) having front and back sections, two sides, an attachment apparatus having a guide member having a plurality of rails (16,16), a connector member (15,25) movable in relation to the guide rails, a fastening mechanism (22) wherein the guide rails (16) or the connector member having at least two apertures (see Figs. 6 and 7) and being movable at different positions (Fig. 7). Corompt (4,848,619) does not show a slotted track on the rail for adjustment. However, Parris ('121) discloses a slotted track (see Figs. 2) to provide an adjustment. Accordingly, it would have been obvious design choice to provide a slotted track (instead of circular holes) on the rails of Corompt (4,848,619) as taught by Parris ('121) to provide more flexibility to adjust the attachment.

The modified Corompt (4,848,619) does not specifically disclose the structural dimension. Accordingly, it would have been obvious design choice to modify the desired structural dimension on the attachment of the modified Corompt's container (4,848,619) in order to facilitate to be handled or pulled by a vehicle. It is pointed out that the recited dimensional structures are not patentably significant because these dimensional structures are standard widely used in the container.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
